MBA & AI

- AI is impacting many MBA sectors, especially marketing, finance, operations, HR, and consulting. For example, in marketing AI helps with customer targeting and campaign optimization, while in finance it is used for fraud detection and risk analysis. In operations it improves demand forecasting and supply chains. Because of this, new specializations like business analytics and AI-driven strategy are becoming very important for MBA graduates.
- AI is definitely transforming consulting and general management, but I see it more as an enabler rather than a replacement. AI can automate tasks like data analysis, market research, and report generation, which traditionally took consultants a lot of time. This allows consultants to focus more on strategic thinking, problem-solving, and stakeholder management, which still require human judgment and creativity.

- What is covered and not covered in gst

However, some items are kept outside GST, including petrol, diesel, crude oil, natural gas, alcohol for human consumption, and electricity. Additionally, certain activities like salaries, court services, funeral services, and the sale of land or completed buildings are not treated as supplies under GST.
